The Overlook Park Nature Patch

By: Michelle Thompson

The north side of Overlook Park is transformed into a Nature Patch, thanks to Portland Parks & Recreation and neighborhood volunteers. The formerly ivy-filled, near-vertical slope is now filled with native plants, carved by paths and adorned with nurse logs and stones and all accessible for exploring. About 50 people gathered on February 12 to celebrate the opening of the Nature Patch, marked with the cutting of an ivy “ribbon” by neighbors Cynthia Sulaski and Brooke C., and to finish planting on the hillside. Many of us agreed with neighbor Lieve Barnett, that getting together near other people (we stayed covid-distanced & masked while planting) was one of the most rewarding parts of the project. Meeting neighbors in real life affirms the sense of community that so many of us value. The sunshine also did not hurt!

Overlook neighbors are fortunate to live close to nature and wildlife, but we can’t get to much of the bluff areas to experience it up close. The Nature Park brings a nod to original Overlook habitats; planting areas include forest understory, wildflower/pollinator meadow, and a high desert display garden. The high desert bed at the foot of the hill showcases Central Oregon plants that are adapted to the warming climate on our side of the mountains. Look for the soil amendments that keep these plants happy and get ideas for your own yard.

Eric Rosewall, Ecologically Sustainable Landscapes Initiative coordinator for PP&R, leads the teams that install Nature Patches in city parks. He and his team cleared and prepared the area with a variety of natural materials like native Pacific Northwest plants, logs, boulders, and paths. Learning elements are added to underused areas to encourage people to play and explore. Nesting boxes, flowering plants, and other additions improve the habitat for birds, pollinating insects, and wildlife. Community members of all ages and abilities are welcome to volunteer to help with planting and stewardship activities. Neighbors participated in four planting sessions this winter, adding 6000 new plants!

Native plants are best suited to our climate (ask me how I learned this the hard way). Adding them to our parks meets many of the program goals:

- Providing spaces for people to explore, play, and interact with nature
- Creating ecologically robust landscapes that support native pollinators within developed parks
- Provide environmental education and stewardship opportunities
- Increase soil and plant health, and expand the diversity of natural landscapes within parks
- Foster community partnerships and PP&R collaboration
- Decrease maintenance inputs over time

Maintenance tasks will be more robust as the new Patch gets established; a sprinkler system is installed but should not be needed on a daily basis once everything’s growing. Please respect the signage and don’t walk in the beds while the plants are so small. The patch will be opened more over time.

Consider joining an upcoming volunteer session at the Nature Patch, or just get on the mailing list to stay up to date on the project.

Spring Letter from the OKNA Chair

By: Stacey Nuissl

I write this with the hope that the Omicron surge is behind us and that we can soon be engaging in person again. One in-person event that I'm very excited to announce is the return of the popular Overlook Movie in the Park. Details from Parks and Recreation are coming together about the film title, music, and vendors, but we do know that the date is set for September 1.

Other events to look forward to are a Spring Clean Up, a Neighborhood Spring Social at The Overlook House on May 15, the annual Overlook Yard Sale in July & a fun scavenger hunt in the Fall.

On a more serious topic, there continue to be many folks experiencing houselessness in our neighborhood who continue to struggle with minimal to no assistance from the City of Portland. At the February Chairs meeting with North Portland Neighborhood Services, Chairs of the other 10 North Portland neighborhood associations discussed forming a North Portland Homelessness Action Committee.

The aim of the new committee would be to focus on smaller-scale efforts while the city works on longer-term solutions. Major topics of discussion at this meeting were to try to advocate for waste management resources from the city to mitigate the overwhelming trash and distribute information about resources to our houseless neighbors.

We want to see you & hear from you! Please join us at our meetings. Please get involved.

We are seeking volunteers on all of our committees. Fundraising, Clean Ups, Outreach, Schools, Land Use, Grant Writing, Parks, Safety, Houselessness, Land Use, and Transportation.

Be safe neighbors. Hope to see you at our upcoming events!

General and Board Meetings Become one.

The OKNA meetings are always open to the public and all are welcome to join. Please note we have combined our monthly general and board meetings. Both meetings will take place on the First Tuesday of each month from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. We hope you will join us!

Overlook Community Social: May 15

The OKNA board is excited to bring the community together. Save the Date for our community social at the Historic Overlook House, Sunday, May 15 from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. More details will be announced soon via our E-mail Bulletin.

A Message from OKNA Transportation Chair

By: Nic Cota

Even in these colder, wetter months, a lot of our neighbors have no option but to be out in the elements, especially as they go from point A to point B. That's why I'd like to take this moment into making sure all folks who plan on driving take extra caution for walkers, bikers, and other rollers on the streets. The year 2021 closed as one of the deadliest years on Portland's streets. The Portland Bureau of Transportation reported with their 2021 Vision Zero Traffic Crash Report that "63 people died in traffic crashes in Portland, the highest number of traffic deaths in any year since 1990."

Either way, I'm excited to stay on as a transportation chair as we head into the Spring of 2022. As a member of the community advisory group for North Portland in Motion, I'll make sure our neighborhood is recognized in the city's long-range planning efforts for improving transportation in this neighborhood. I also want to encourage and promote as much as possible the use of the plethora of alternatives we have available in Overlook!

- Bike: Ride along either the N Willamette Blvd or N Concord Ave neighborhood greenways! Learn more about Portland neighborhood greenways here: <https://bit.ly/3HTXQuR>
- Walk: Plenty of shops and businesses within walking distance along Interstate or Killingsworth
- Transit: Did you know... the MAX Light Rail runs every 15 minutes or less most of the day, every day? Or that Bus Line 72 is the busiest bus line in the State of Oregon? Check out the schedules: <https://bit.ly/35VKjpf>

Our options are plentiful! If you haven't met me yet, please reach out! Or better yet, meet me on my monthly, easy, family-friendly Overlook ride every second Saturday.

Have Fred Meyer or Amazon donate to OKNA

By: Brad Halverson

Thank you to everyone who added OKNA to Fred Meyer and Amazon Smile Community Rewards as your designated non-profit organization! OKNA receives a contribution each quarter from the program which helps to pay for producing the Overlook Views and other expenses.

If you shop at Fred Meyer and participate in their Rewards program, you might have noticed that there is a Community Rewards option too. Fred Meyer donates a total of $500,000 each quarter to the non-profit organizations that have registered with their program. The money is divided up based on eligible purchases by individuals with accounts that have selected one of these non-profits.

Fred Meyer Rewards:

- Go to fredmeyer.com
- Click on your name (upper right)
- Click on My Account
- Sign in
- Scroll down to Community Rewards on the far left
- Enter RR853 or Overlook Neighborhood Association
- Click on Enroll

You can also use the Fred Meyer app – click on the triple line in the upper right then Rewards then Community Rewards.

If you have an Amazon online account, Amazon will donate 0.5% of the cost of your eligible purchases to non-profit organizations registered with the Amazon Smile program.

Amazon Smiles:

- Go to smile.amazon.com
- then AmazonSmile or AmazonSmile Charity Lists.
- To help OKNA, enter <https://smile.amazon.com/ch/93-1121342> then click on Accept.
- That's it!

If you shop with either company, we hope you take advantage by choosing the Overlook Neighborhood Association to receive your donations. Thanks!

Former Blessed Sacrament School Building

By: Stacey Nuisl & Julie Livingston, Home Forward

About six months ago, Home Forward purchased the full block that sits between Maryland, Wygant, Montana, and Blandena—the site of the Blessed Sacrament School that was more recently the Peninsula Children’s Learning Center.

Home Forward is a leader in the community creating public commitment, policy, and funding to preserve and develop affordable housing.

At this time, Home Forward has no current plans to redevelop the site. They have not yet considered what type of housing program might work well at this location and they have not selected an architect or contractor. To date, the only action taken is the purchase of the property and an agreement between Home Forward (buyer) and Neighborhood House (seller) that the two organizations will collaborate on the redevelopment.

In the interim, an architectural design studio at the University of Oregon has selected this block as the site for a design studio. The project is a two-term thesis studio with an affordable housing program.

Over the next several months there will be 17 students on and around the site executing a theoretical project. If the students engage with neighbors in an effort to better understand the neighborhood, they are doing this in an effort to forward their own understanding and not as representatives of Home Forward.

The instructors, Renee Strand and Dave Otte of Holst Architecture have intentionally structured the studio to give the students as close to a real-life experience designing an affordable multi-family housing building as possible. Students have been instructed to comply with the zoning code, the plan district, and the Portland Citywide Design Guidelines, they will receive feedback on their proposed programs and design work from local architects and development professionals who work in Portland, and they will present their proposals to members of the Portland Design Commission.

Direct contact with interested community members will enhance the studio experience for students. Julie Livingston from Home Forward will be the project manager for the eventual redevelopment.

If anyone has questions about Home Forward or future development, please reach out to Julie at:

Patton Square Park: A Small Green Gem

By: Teresa Perrin and Cynthia Sulaski

For those of you who are new to Overlook, we thought you might like to know more about one of the parks in the neighborhood - Patton Square Park.

Soon after the fire station on Interstate Avenue just south of Killingsworth Street closed in 1959 (the building was remodeled and established as the Interstate Firehouse Cultural Center in 1982), the land adjacent to the station was transformed into a neighborhood park and named after Matthew Patton. With an obviously small footprint, Patton Square Park was historically meant to serve only nearby residents. The amenities were minimal and basic for that era.

Decades later, with monies from the Interstate Corridor Urban Renewal Area (URA) that funded the construction of the MAX Yellow Line in the early 2000s, improvement projects throughout the area began to be designed and completed. Since Portland Parks & Recreation (PP&R) assessed Patton Square Park as being the most in need of attention of the parks in the URA, a $650,000 major renovation project was undertaken and completed in 2008. The lead-based painted play pieces were removed and interior pathways and lighting, mixed seating, a playground, and a plaza linking the park to IFCC were installed.

Under the auspices of the Overlook Neighborhood Association, a group of neighbors, businesses, and nonprofits formed Friends of Patton Square Park (FOPSP) in 2011 to support and enhance this important community open space and recreational area. Over the years the group organized and held several community events at the park that offered local multicultural music, dance, and food plus fun activities for kids and adults.

During one of their meetings in 2016, FOPSP determined that the playground needed a serious upgrade. With the rapid expansion of the Interstate Corridor area during the previous 10+ years, new multi-family construction was bringing in more residents, especially children. In addition, students from the nearby charter school and the preschool visited the park on a daily basis. However, only two play elements were available to engage them. So the group submitted a project proposal to PP&R in early 2017 to upgrade the playground.

After two years of waiting, checking in, and waiting some more, FOPSP finally learned that PP&R was amenable to partnering in a playground renovation. Fortunately, the playground was already on the list to be resurfaced due to poor drainage, so funding for that critical project would come from the 2014 Parks Replacement Bond. This gave FOPSP a unique opportunity to further some of their vision to expand the small play area and make it more inviting and interactive for a greater number of children. With input from community members, they chose five new play pieces that especially younger children could enjoy.

Friends of Patton Square Park successfully raised over $20,000 for the play equipment from individuals and businesses and the city contributed $15,000 from System Development Charges (thanks to late Commissioner Nick Fish for his support). In addition, PP&R added a distinctive and functional natural seating area at the narrow end of the playground closest to Maryland Avenue and installed contrabass chimes just outside the play area.

The community celebrated the newly renovated playground on September 14, 2019, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony, cupcakes, and music by Ants Ants Ants.

Historically most adults and children in the Overlook neighborhood lived in single-family homes that included front and back yards to relax and play in. Now, and especially in the near future, many families rely on Patton Square Park as their only nearby green space and play area. If you haven't already done so, come and enjoy what Overlook's small green gem has to offer!

Every winter Portland Audubon) receives reports of Pine Siskins affected by salmonella. Pine Siskins are flocking birds that frequent feeders during this season. Salmonella is a bacteria that can live in the intestines of people and animals and is spread via feces. For reasons that are not fully understood, Pine Siskins are particularly susceptible to salmonella. When large numbers of Pine Siskins congregate day after day, particularly during the stressful winter months, salmonella can quickly spread through a local population. It is not uncommon at this time of year to find sick or dead Pine Siskins around feeders.

Behaviors that you notice in affected birds include:

- Easy to approach, not moving much.
- Weak with little or no ability to fly.
- Fluffed feathers, tucking their head & squinting eyes. Generally looking weak & dull.

There are important steps that you can take to protect Pine Siskins, other birds, and your family if you see signs of this illness.

How to Protect Birds at Your Feeders:

It is fine to feed the birds when done appropriately, but there are important steps you can take to minimize the risk of a salmonella outbreak and to minimize the spread of illness:

You can find detailed cleaning protocols here: <https://bit.ly/3CoXrPT>

- Clean and bleach your feeders regularly. Not just in the winter, but year-round. Clean with soap and water, rinse, soak with a solution of 1 part household bleach to 10 parts water, allow to sit for 10 minutes, rinse, and dry before using

- again. The best practice would be to clean and bleach daily, however, if folks can't manage a daily clean, as often as possible is the next best thing. (PRO-TIP: Have two identical feeders that you can rotate, one inside being cleaned appropriately and the other outside feeding the beloved birds.)
- Wash all nearby surfaces and rake the ground around the feeder.
  - Use relatively small feeders and only fill the feeders with enough food for the day, don't overfill and have seed sitting in wet conditions. Try to choose seed mixes with low "fallout" – seed types suitable to the specific birds you're feeding so not as much seed ends up on the ground. Our Nature Store staff can help with this if you have questions!
  - Platform feeders are particularly problematic because of their design, which allows bird droppings to collect where the birds are also expected to feed. Try to avoid feeders with this type of design.
  - Take down feeders for 2-3 weeks any time you see an ill bird near your feeder. This will cause the flock to disperse. There is plenty of natural food out there for the birds, so the removal of feeders will not put them in jeopardy.

What to Do If You Find an Injured, Ill, or Orphaned Animal?

The best thing you can do is contain the animal in a securely closed (but ventilated) box and keep the animal quiet and undisturbed until you can transport it to your closest wildlife rehabilitation facility. Do not offer food or water. Limit contact and wash your hands!

Salmonella and Humans
Salmonella is a zoonotic bacteria, which means that people, pets, and other wildlife can be susceptible. During last year's outbreak in Pine Siskins, there were about 20 salmonella cases in humans associated with bird feeding along the West Coast as well.

Symptoms in people and pets can range from mild to severe, and though it is treatable with antibiotics and people recover well in most cases, in rare cases, salmonella can be serious or even fatal. The good news is that it is not hard to protect yourself and your pets from contracting this illness!

To minimize risk to your family and pets by doing the following:

- Always wash your hands after handling feeders, birdbaths, or anything wild birds use!
- Keep cats safe indoors, and don't let your pets drink from birdbaths or eat the seeds that fall from bird feeders
- Keep small children from playing under feeders or in birdbaths

There is no reason to panic but there is a reason to take common-sense precautions.

Unfortunately, Pine Siskins with salmonella have a very low survival rate, especially once the bird is showing symptoms. We do our best to care for the sick animals that are brought in, but the most effective medicine is actively trying to prevent the spread to reduce the number of birds who become sick!
